"Take the Boys into Your Home!"

Who Is Behind Persecution of Boarding House Owners ?

TEMPORARY ORGANIZATION ACCOMPLISHED

Responding to the call of Mrs. Glenn R. Adams, of 3605 Crowell street, San Diego boarding and rooming house owners held an organization meeting in the House of Hospitality in Balboa Park last Wednesday night and elected a temporary organization committee as well as a chairman of the strategy committee. Clyde Copeland, of 2969 Fifth ave. was elected chairman; Mrs. E. Agnew, of 3731 India, vice-chairman; William C. Nitz, of 421 Douglas st. secretary and Mrs. Glenn R. Adams, treasurer; C. S. de Vilbiss, of 3944 Alameda st., strategy chairman with authority to appoint two other members on his committee.

It was decided that boarding house owners, rooming house owners and the landlords whose property is leased to them as well as such other interested parties as bankers who made loans or hold mortgages, furniture dealers whose products have not been paid for, wholesale grocers and others who directly or indirectly are in danger of losing their investments through the extension of credit, are eligible for membership in the association. Initiation fee is one dollar with further dues to be decided upon after a permanent organization has been effected.

The whole situation in a nutshell is that out of a clear sky the San Diego Chamber of Commerce, the City Council and dozens of civic groups had sent out on S. O. S. call to the people of San Diego to open up their private homes for the accomodation of a horde of newly arrived workers needed by the Consolidated Aircraft corporation in its expansion for defense consstruction. "Take the boys into your homes", cried all these public and civic bodies and to make it realistic the City Council suspended zoning provisions for six months last October and renewed the suspension for another six months.

The boarding house people, some who had not thought of entering this occupation on a business scale, took the public assurances at face value and opened their homes to the newly arrived workers. Naturally, this created enmities in the residential districts where people had bought property under restrictions. There also was more noise on Sundays when the boys started playing their guitares at 6 in the morning, in some sections. There was trouble over automobile parking all night on the streets, but rules were relaxed, laws not enforced, everything done to encourage "patriotic" sacrifices to help build more airplanes.

And now the boarding house owners. They charged a modest fee for room and board. Suddenly prices of food went up. Instead of raising their prices to the boarders they figured that by an increase of boarders on a smaller remaining margin they still could make both ends meet. So they enlarged their facilities, accepted more boarders and plugged along. Nobody bothered them. Their facilities are better than the same relative conditions in army camps, barracks and dormitories. The congestion is much less and the boys prefer to live in those boarding houses rather than in other places where they do not have as much convenience for the price.

But, now it appears that with the erection of government projects and FHA housing facilities there is great competition for workers to fill the vacant facilities. Suddenly the City Health department is discovering that the private boarding house and rooming house owners have placed the boys in rooms where the ceiling is only 7 feet 6 inches from the floor instead of 8 feet, as the dormitory law requires; that the stairways don't have the regulation width but are a foot or two short; that the sheets on the beds are not made of asbestos so the bed won't be set afire by burning cigaretes. 8 months ago, 5 months ago, 3 months ago, when the housing shortage was acute, the private individuals were encouraged to expand, the banks loaned money, the furniture people offered credit, the wholesale grocer accepted an I. O. U., the refrigerators and kitchen equipment was installed similarly; — please, why did the banks make the loans? Because everybody believed a year ago that it was a patriotic duty to disregard existing laws and rules because THIS IS AN EMERGENCY. Now that which was a duty last year, has become a crime this year. So, in effect, says the health department and has served notice on a number of boarding houses to discontinue service within 15 days.

Why this sudden change of public policy? Who is to profit by it? This the affected parties, as American citizens, are determined to find out. The organization proposes to first lay the case before the city council and ask for an investigation and recommendation how best to meet the situation so that yesterday's patriotism does not bring jail sentences and loss of property and investments to the patriots, branded now as criminals.

On Tuesday morning, at 10 o'clock, the organization has decided to walk in a body into Civic Center building and be present at the council meeting when their letter will come up for consideration on the meeting's docket. The attitude of the city council will determine further steps to be taken by the organization.

LABOR

Classes come and go, but the Toiler goes on forever; the world's necessity, born to the mudsill, bold Challenger of Life, vivid in a changeless mural. Pupil of hard-knock school, wearing with a swagger of pride and confidence the bump of belligerency, so firmly fixed in his clan's tradition.

Argumental cuss, with a flair for bargaining, reluctant to concede; genius for compromise, with uncanny ability to win; cutter of red-tape, with a voice of raucous discord.

Battler with leonine qualities, bucking in a spot; droll, old-fashioned, pagan and puritannical.

Enigma with slangy, snappy, one-syllable retorts to the mandates in time-honored rhetoric.

Satirizer of upper-crusters, pain to the biggies and, a scorner of oppressors, those "Nice People" who will not discuss "the matter".

Dandies call him "brusque, ribald fellow", this builder of their cars, yachts, mansions and super-streamlined everything.

The Laborer, whom they can do without, until the Devil must be paid; "obnoxious feller", when things are "Hotsy-totsy"; "Mircale-Man", when things go wrong. Bore and Problem in peace-time; plane and artillery, indispensable helper, cavalry's valet and Cannon-fodder without a whine. Aye, the true figure of actuality, when the Country calls:- "To Arms".

At times he wears an engaging smile and gives a cherry-note, this stout-hearted driver, dubbed "Rowdy" and relegated to the rear.

Long distance spitter and plug chewer, smutty, sweaty, razor-sharp swearing man, and ever wired for sound.

Solver of blue-print riddles, gag man in overalls, stunt artist on a dangerous swing, breathless mental-noter, safe catcher, grim-holder, never slipping back. Exporter of fancy cussing thru a sneering, thin-line, showing a pearly row, not ugly in smile or snarl.

Daring Fate from a foot-square base on rising girders, bold jigger on a steel beam, shouting Hallelujah; tremendous driver, hammering on to a record, hellbent on fitting a square into a round hole.

Inexplicable, amid din of spinning cylinders, whirring dynamos, motor-hums and scaffold's squeal.

Unemotional dare devil, above a yawning abyss, piping a snap of song to the clanging ring, on the high-crane's steel.

Discreet, smart, play-boy in his own way; loves a new crush; gay as a harlequin in Rue Royale at Mardi-Gras Dawn's first flush.

Bubbling with joy for his place in the sun, albeit he climbs or digs for the warmth which He sends for each one.

Never defeated by his own weakness, no lost babe in the woods, yet—over whom, none ever waxes eloquent.

Standouter, by defeasance of the haughty-lords; man of mudsill rank and simple faith; a cold world's antithesis and its balancing pillar.

Partners, in triumph with Architects; their's a reflected glory, transcending the dazzlings of earth's mighty ones, who, "speak with the tongues of men and Angels" and, for having not Charity, become as sounding-brass and tinkling-cymbals.

When Laborers reach Heaven, they're thru with waits and delegates; Satan looks up knowing if Pete's late, down comes The Pearly-Gates.

If Peter's there and asks:—"What are your merits for Harp and Crown; they'll say "Why Peter we are the guys, that made the World spin 'round!"

KGB in Balboa Park

DAVID— Dad, are you in favor of putting the KGB radio station in the park?

DAD— Yes, David; I wrote a letter to the city council, favoring it. You may read the letter if you want to. Here it is:

DAVID— "To the Mayor, and City Council,— Gentlemen:— I have to laugh at Mr. Julius Wangenheim and George W. Marston objecting to KGB erecting a building in Balboa Park in return for a lease. — Kindly remember that Mr. Wangenheim and Mr. Marston were virtually 'THE Civic Affairs Committee' whose previous city council gave away the automobile parking concession to Walter Casey during the last Exposition in Balboa Park. We had to pay 50c to park in our own park. — I would remind the Union-Tribune that they are enjoying the second class mailing privilege as a result of an act of congress to facilitate public education, but the Union-Tribune is exploiting the second class mailing privilege by collecting cash from advertisers; which means commercializing a free grant from the Federal Government. — "Consistency, Thou art a Jewel!" — as long as the Union-Tribune is able to commercialize congressional grants. — I recommend that your Honorable Body continue the long established policy of developing the Park by granting concessions to firms and individuals who furnish free education and entertainment, which the Union-Tribune fails to supply. (Signed) C. LEON de ARYAN."

FRED— Why did you write that letter dad?

DAD— At first I was not going to take any sides in this controversy of granting a lease to KGB in the park to erect a studio there. But when I saw that the Union-Tribune is using its wide newspaper circulation to do dirt to KGB because it has been jealous of its success as a medium for advertising, I decided to take a hand. I am asking all my friends to write letters to the city council to offset the propaganda of the Union-Tribune.

Independent Labor Unions

Today is National Labor Day. The idea seems to prevail that it is the occasion where Labor parades represent the laboring men and women. But in those parades no place has been provided for the great mass of wage earners who refuse to belong to the two international unions.

Before the advent of the Wagner Labor Relations Act, which is unconstitutional and un-American because it provides for slave conditions to be imposed upon wage earners, unwilling to belong to contract unions — only 20% of the American wage earners were members of the two big racket organizations. Through the blacklist of the Wagner Act today perhaps 50% of the workers have been forced into the large unions. But at the same time the Wagner Act opened up a new avenue of organization, the Independent Union.

In the racket unions the mass of the workers have only nominally a voice. The organizers control the union and those who don't submit voluntarily are literarily hounded and bludgeoned by the goon squads, if other means of petty persecutions and recrimination of a harder nature is not effective.

The Independent Unions have eliminated all such dictatorial and communistic practices. In California these unions incorporate as non-profit organizations. They collect a low entrance fee from their members and keep dues down all the way. Once an election is held by the NLRB, their standing is just as valid and their contracts just as legal as that of any other union. In the Independent Unions the membership controls the union. They elect their officers who must make a report of the financial standing to the membership according to law. Nobody is beaten up by a goon squad for asking for an accounting from the business agent.

There are many such independent unions in San Diego. We are presenting below the names of only a few, as an example of the progress of independent labor organization. Of course the worker who stands upon his constitutional right of individual contractual freedom and joins no union is the real American worker, American in the spirit of liberty. But since the federal administration has eliminated the U. S. Constitution as the supreme law of the nation and has packed the supreme court with its own stooges to make the Constitution inoperative, in self-defense many workers have banded together to utilize the provisions of the Wagner Act to at least protect themselves against being made unconditional slaves of either of the two international racket organizations.

Declared a legal paper of general circulation for the County and City of San Diego, by Superior Court order, January 15, 1932.

That Lehman Mint

Definitely there are interests in these United States wanting to keep the war-conflagration at white heat because there is big money involved when the blaze is fanned fiercest. Through prolongation of the holocaust and firing of this country with it, these war-jobbing financiers would achieve six objectives—

First, they would make themselves huge profits;

Second, under a war dictatorship they would destroy small business and concentrate all industrial effort in the hands of great corporations where their interest is heaviest;

Third, every citizen—farmer, laborer, professional person and artisan— would be regimented. Ickes' oil dictatorship heralds the program;

Fourth, they would gradually confiscate all property under the guise of national defense— in reality, destroy private property-ownership of all except Sons of Jacob or Gentile stooges in good standing with Abraham, Isaac and Moses;

Fifth, they would consummate the ultimate objective of establishing an outright communistic form of government in America, uniting it subsequently with the same types of government which they have tried to bring to England and France, and did bring to Russia;

Sixth, they would create a situation where, in defiance of the Bill of Rights in our Constitution, they could suppress all persons who challenged or obstructed them, through imprisonment or worse.

How are these objectives being attained?

Recently the Chicago Tribune printed this amazing statement: That of all the war business supposedly going out to the firms of the United States, 56 corporations are getting 75 percent of it!

Think what this means.

Of the tens—nay, hundreds—of thousands of firms engaged in manufacturing throughout the forty-eight States of this Union, a mere 56 of them are getting three-quarters of all the war business that is going on. All the rest of the nation's tens and hundreds of thousands of firms, have to divide the other quarter.

But there is more to this stupendous survey.

Of those 56 big corporations, six of them received some $3,076,000,000 of defense orders or 31.3 percent of orders allocated to all firms.

The 50 companies that were left, got $4,194,000,000 in orders, or 42.6 percent.

Figures, as a rule, only appeal to the businessman who is accustomed to handling them. But here is a condition where the average American should take time out to at least note the totals.

The war business that all the thousands of small firms throughout the country got—the little fellows who in the long run pay the biggest portion of the taxes, amounted to $2,569,000,000.

As a matter of editorial curiosity, the 56 big firms named in the Tribune dispatch were checked with the holdings of the Lehman Corporation, incorporated in Delaware and managed by the private banking-house of Lehman Brothers, New York City.

The Lehman Corporation was set up to buy and sell stocks and bonds for profit. A check of these 56 corporations shows that the Lehman Corporation holds stocks in almost HALF of them!

As of December 31, 1940, the holdings of the Lehman Corporation show heavy holdings in agricultural machinery stocks—firms particularly making tractors and tanks—industrial machinery securities such as the Allis-Chalmers, Fairbanks-Morse, General Electric, Westinghouse and others —and 165,910 shares of the common stock of general manufacturers, worth $1,376,195.

Lehman Corporation also holds 101,310 shares of the common stock of the country's principal merchandisers worth $4,297,812, including shares in Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and J. C. Penny; 217,063 shares of common stock in metal and mining companies, said to be worth $2,715,128. including 148,250 shares of Anglo-Huronian, Ltd., and 11,000 shares of International Nickel. All these companies in the light of government war orders, are doing quite nicely, thank you! Then look these over—owned by Lehman Corporation:

225,650 shares in Oil companies $5,070,300; 329,782 shares in Public Utilities $3,846,178; 42,000 shares in Pulp and Paper $590,125; 57,453 shares in Railroads $1,590,493; 31,700 shares in Railroad equipment $1,245,025; 27,124 shares in Textiles $503,141; 5,000 shares in Philip Morris Tobacco $380,000.

In addition to the above, Lehman owns 11,400 shares in Bethlehem Steel, 6,000 shares in Republic Steel and 17,800 shares in United States Steel, the combined values of which, as of December 31, 1940 were something like $2,359,675.

The Common and Preferred stocks, Government Bonds and other securities held by the Lehman Corporation as of December 31, 1940 were distributed as follows—

Common stocks	$44,764,457
Preferred stocks	3,867,687
Government bonds	6,934,406
Municipal bonds	883,776
Railroad bonds	713,617
Miscellaneous bonds	1,108,350

It will be noted by the analytical reader that the Lehman Corporation executives are very partial to profitable common stocks— all in great corporations, and practically all of them loaded with heavy backlogs of national defense orders.

Eyebrows might be raised, too, over the small percentage of the total holdings invested in Federal Government bonds—only slighty over 15 percent of the total of $58,272,293 worth of all holdings.

One wonders what the trouble may be in this regard. Can it be possible that the Lehman executives don't think U. S. Government securities such a terribly good investment?

The mischievous thought intrudes that perchance they know too much about them—from the "inside" . .

By consulting the 1941 edition of Moody's Manual of Investment Trusts—Banks, Insurance Companies, Real Estate, Investment Trusts— it is interesting to note the Lehman Corporation was incorporated in Delaware on September 11, 1929. Perhaps a study of the history of that corporation would disclose some profitable operations during the fall of 1929—the year of the big crash in stocks.

Another interesting fact to observe is that, while the stock in the corporation is widely distributed, the private banking house of Lehman Bros., New York city, gets 8- 1|3 percent of the net realized profit for managing the Lehman Corporation.

Furthermore, check over the list of the directors, and another significant fact emerges, to wit: The directors are nearly all partners in the private banking house of Lehman Brothers. These directors also for the most part hold salaried positions with the Lehman Corporation in executive capacity. It would seem to be a case of "out of the right hand and into the left."

In 1939 the total net income of the Lehman Corporation was $1,481,691; heavy holdings in profitable war stocks in 1940 raised their total net income in 1940 to $2,115,993.

Curtis Dahl, erstwhile son-in-law of the President, was formerly a departmental manager for Lehman. The relationship between No. 1 William Street and 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue has always been most cordial.

Who Murdered Borah and Lundeen ?

In the AMERICAN magazine for October 1941, H. R. Knickerbocker, who describes himself as a permanent correspondent in Europe since 1923, and says that he knows conditions over there, writes a very significant revelation. On page 112, last paragraph:

" . . . the only publicly acknowledged attempt on Hitler's life remains the explosion in the Buerger Braeu Keller in Munich on Nov. 8, 1939, the anniversary of the Hitler-Ludendorff Putsch. The Germans blamed the British secret service, and the British blamed the Nazis themselves.

"This is almost the only time I would be compelled to agree with the Germans.

"To refresh your memory, Hitler and his 'Old Fighters' left the beer hall sooner than they had been expected to, departing just 12 minutes before the bomb exploded and killed 7 persons and wounded 63.

". . . Some people argued that Hitler, himself, arranged for the bomb . . . This makes no sense because Hitler needed no artificial aids to his enormous popularity, and England was already ardently hated.

"It is not symbolic but literarly true that millions of Nazis consider him to be third in the thriad of Father, Son and Holy Ghost. A true Nazi would no more think of raising his hand against his Fuehrer than would a devout Catholic think of assassinating the Pope. Further, every Nazi knows that his very life depends upon the continued existence and leadership of Hitler.

"It seems reasonable to ask who would profit by the death of Hitler. The Nazis? Of course not. The British? Of course. If they had succeeded, they would have earned the gratitude of hundreds of millions throughout the world.

"The attempt bore every earmark of being a well thought out and executed play by the British which failed by just a few moments. The British government, I should think, has done all it could to have Hitler killed, and they must have been working on this problem ever since the war began. If they haven't, they have failed in their duty."

That's a Nice Revelation

Now if it is the duty of the British government to kill its opponents in other countries, we remember that suddenly Senator Borah was found dead in his bathroom after he announced that he would bring up in the U. S. Senate the question of British interference with U. S. Mails on the high seas. We also remember that suddenly Senator Lundeen's airplane had a smash.

Having been in the employ of the British government, myself, I left it because of this very attitude towards human lives and well-being which Knickerbocker so blandly describes in his article: WHY DOESN'T SOMEBODY KILL HITELR?

———o———

A negro who had an injured head entered a doctor's office.

"Hello Sam! Got cut again, I see."

"Yes, sah. I done got carved up wid a razor."

"Why don't you keep out of bad company?" said the physician, after he had dressed the wound.

"Deed I'd like to; but I ain't got 'nuff money to get a divorce."

The foregoing gives a practical picture of one segment of the Jewish financial-industrial takeover of U. S. industries, and shows in small part the technique being used.

Remember that the defense orders are highly concentrated in corporations whose stocks are largely held by international banking interests, Gentile bankers as well as Jewish. Then note what is happening to small industries, according to Peter Nehemkis, Jr., assistant to the chief of the contract division of the Office of Production Management, who made this statement:

"By the end of summer, one-third of American industry will be obliged either to change over to munitions or stop operating."

Do not forget that Gov. Herbert Lehman, ex-officio head of both corporations, is the President's "good right arm" and despite all fair words to the contrary, it is the foreign policy of this President, with the head of Lehman Corporation as such good right arm that is keeping the mass-murder of Gentiles going at full tilt in Europe.—Roll-Call.

God Rules Supreme

My dear Mr. Chapin:

I appreciate your prompt reponse to my call for help, it certainly comes in handy and if more people did the same I could accomplish a better job.

During these days where treachery and murder is king, one must realize that Roosevelt and Churchill are only temporary indices, like the hands of the clock, they tell us what times we are living in. But we are the watchmakers and make our own times.

Still, the Lord rules the earth, just the same!

The present process is a cleansing process by which the vermin exterminate themselves. If there was no murder in the hearts of the multitude of Americans, Churchill and Roosevelt could not have put over "lease-lend" for murder, to continue the slaughter and spread it. The parallel is perfect if you consider America's slaughter houses. The cattle are regimented, step by step, after they were raised and fattened and now they are 'sacrificed' for the scheming profits of the butchers. It's Kosher, they planned it.

We, who are vegetarians from the LOVE of God and the respect for the SANCTITY of Life, are not part and parcel of this carnage. We must remember that what one sows, one certainly also reaps, even if the Mills of the Gods grind slowly.

The Four Horsemen

But the meek shall inherit the earth. Roosevelt and Churchill, as well as Hitler and Stalin, are going down in history as the last four-flushing mass murderers who preceded the AWAKENING and the rise of the New Day, when humanity turned to INTELLIGENCE to execute the WILL of God instead of attempting to thwart it, as national and international militarism is doing at present. By using the energies expended against the Constitution of mankind, as well as the U. S. A., FOR human welfare the paradise on earth can easily become an accomplished reality. Have Faith—Keep Faith.

Oh, I'm a jolly tapeworm, and I live in a gallant man,
Who labors night and day for me, as hard as ever he can.
Oh, I lie in his paunch and laugh to see him work and eat,
While he starves his wife and children to give a tapeworm meat.

The jaws of my man make music that drives me wild with glee,
And I chuckle aloud to think how the good God cares for me.

I am only a worm I know, a worm of low degree,
But I bless the Lord with all my might for making a man for me,
The Lord is very good to me, and I thank him all I can,
Yet, after all, I sometimes think it's damned hard on my man.

Good THOUGHT

Good WORD — Good DEED

THE MAZDAZNAN PHILOSOPHY
By Dr. O. Z. Ha'nish

Once man realizes that his life is in his own hands, while the Wheel of Destiny turns according to manipulations made by his own will, he will no longer dream of the past, but will push on toward the goal held out before him.

All man wants to know is the path of life that knows no regrets, while his aim is that of performing his duty well toward the commonwealth which holds his interest. He labors for all and with it reaps all the gain for himself. As long as he labored for himself the gain went into the hands of others. Now that he sees the great point in Life to the relation of spirit and mattre, the individual to society, he also recognizes possibilities without end and opportunities galore.

That man may ever be awake to his possibilties he must necessarily posses endowments of mind and body capable to cope with the demands and conditions of his time. As time changes man's tactics must change accordingly, otherwise he will prove behind the times and accordingly become a failure. As the Sun in his ascendancy changes his course, even so is man to change his ways as time advances. No matter how perfect our ideas and tactics once may have been, there is no reason why they should not be modified with the advance of years.

We continuously improve in the mechanical lines, perfect our commercial system and change tactics in business, as well as otherwise. If we do not improve individually it is because we do not follow the trend of the spirit of the times. We retard our growth and development if we fail to follow the course pointed out by the spirit of the day.

Man is by nature perfect, and with each day becomes more perfect where he keeps in step with the growth of the seasons. Man is perfect and treads the path of perfection as long as he follows the still, small voice revealing itself to him by keeping his eyes and ears open to conviction. "He who has eyes to see with let him see; he who has ears to hear with let him hear what the spirit (of the times) reveals."

To be able to comprehend one's possibilities man must live in accordance to law and order as revealed thru Nature. Man needs to pay attention to himself mentally as well as physically. As much as he acquaints himself with the objects of Nature about him, even so he needs to know all about himself. Once he learns to know himself he shall know all his kin, and he shall understand how to conduct himself to be a factor in society, for "the greatest study of man is—man." "Man know thyself" and "know thyself" are the themes of ancient sages as well as practical men of our day.

Knowing oneself assures self-control and self-reliance. As long as we do not know the extent of our vim, vigor, courage, confidence, tenacity, ability, determination and ambition, just that long we grope in the labyrinth of uncertainties, wasting our time and losing the best of our chances.

To know oneself man must establish routine, regime and time. He must keep himself under strict surveillance and observation. He must be his own guide and keeper. Anything and everything not conducive to his welfare he is not only to shun, but to treat with silent contempt. Whatever may cross his path not in harmony with him and not furthering his ends unto happiness man is to drive away thru denials. An apparent loss is never to be recognized. Keep your eyes fixed upon the goal before you, while your mind and hands are busy exercising the God-given talents in pursuits of daily walks, sowing the seed of ambition unto the harvest of great achievements.

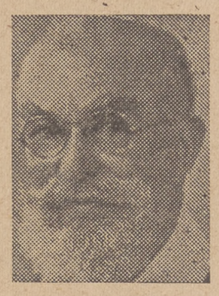
HEALTH-GERMS

By George Starr White, M. D.

DIET HINTS

When the stomach begins to bother U, change your method of eating and diet. Usually starches and refined sugar, as well as too much fat in the food, make the initial trouble.



Dr. Geo. Starr White

Omit from your diet all cereals, and everything made from cereals, until the stomach or intestinal upset subsides. Then whole-grains such as wheat, rye, and oats, thoroly steamed, can usually be eaten to advantage in small quantities each day. In colitis, however, no starches of any kind should be taken.

Omit all refined sugar and everything made with refined sugar. Cook nothing in aluminum —not even water. Drink a glass of cool distilled or boiled water, before each meal.

Eat slowly and chew your food well.

Omit from your diet all condiments such as pepper and spices, and all salt. Eat as much as possible of raw fruits and vegetables, especially green leafy vegetables. Many can eat fruit for breakfast, vegetables for mid-day and salads for the evening meal. Two or three tablespoonsful of steamed whole grains (no packaged cereals) with a little honey or molasses, or a few raisins, can be eaten for one meal if desired. Two baked bananas make a good meal—can be eaten for breakfast by many who can digest nothing else in the mornings.

If U are at all overweight, eat less than U have been in the habit of eating and try to eat but one article of food at each meal.

Denatured milk; hard-boiled eggs; fried foods; too many fats; etc., often produce stomach troubles that lead to ulceration.

No two persons can be prescribed for in exactly the same manner. The mono-diet system is best, so each individual can find out what agrees with him and what does not.

Don't worry about "calories". One thousand "calories" to one person may be a "dead weight" to another.

Investigations indicate that at least one-fourth of the children in the United States are malnourished. The reason is plain—de-natured milk and packaged cereals are "filling" but that is all. The child starves, tho eating much. "Prepared cereals" are mostly prepared unhealth. If U wish to eat grains in any form, eat the whole grains, buying them whole and preparing them yourself. The outer husk should be removed; and the rest of the grain can be eaten.

SAMMY'S DILEMMA

O Sammy had a gorgeous time
With lots of gin and girls.
He thought his life would always be
A string of shining pearls.

His work was in a liquor store
And that was just too bad.
He lost his job because he drank.
No other could be had.

When you are fifty years or more,
A job is hard to get.
Thus Sammy lost his women friends,
And drank much more, you bet.

But oh, he was in luck again.
His mother had some cash.
She died and left a thousand bucks,
And Sammy was still brash.

He went to Hollywood at once
To find a wealthy wife.
But girls refused the whiskey face,
And Sam was full of strife.

What could he do, what could he do?
His fortune melting fast!
Should he give up the girls and go
To an old men's home at last?

That was his headache, real indeed.
His fun had been too brief.
Should he now try a laboring job
Or just go on relief?

Rabbies Vaccine; Cancer Cure, Etc.

(Over KGB, Tuesday 8:30, pm, August 28, 1941)

FRED—A United Press dispatch from Florence, Alabama, says that hundreds of dogs—bluebloods and mongrels alike—overcrowded veterinary clinics for emergency treatments to save them from the results of being vaccinated with anti-rabbies vaccine. 1300 dogs had been made ill and hundreds had died as a result of the vaccination. Dr. Sugg, state veterinarian of Alabama, said that the vaccine was contaminated, but that he had no idea how it happened. That's a terrible thing to take a chance with one's dog. How can such things happen, not to one dog, but to 1300, think of it, daddy, 1300 dogs.

DAD—It sounds stranger than fiction, Fred, I must say.

FRED—Does it take so long to find out whether a dog is poisoned that in the meantime they go ahead and poison 1300 dogs, before the first one dies?

DAD—I have always been opposed to the fetish of taking pus from one sick animal and shooting it into the blood stream of other sick animals, or even worse, into the blood stream of healthy animals. Transfering pus serums does not immunize anybody. It's cannibalism in another form.

DAVID—Why do you call it cannibalism?

DAD—Because cannibalism means that you destroy and devour your kind. What difference does it make whether you do it all at once or little by little. Blood serum injected directly into the blood stream is pure cannibalism. It always makes them sick, whether they be animals or humans.

DAVID—But the law says that dogs must be vaccinated.

DAD—There was a time when the law said that witches had to be burned at the stake, right here in America, but that does not make it right, it's against God and nature. Health comes only from right INDIVIDUAL conduct. That is the very purpose of life itself, that each living being shall learn to live right and conform to the law of his own being. By stealing health from another the individual does not progress, even if it were possible to so steal health,

FRED—The United Press reports from New York that Dr. Samuel L. Stammer succeeded to cure cancer by a formula given him by another patient who was cured of it. As a result the New York State department of education, on behalf of the medical board, instituted proceedings to take away the license of Dr. Stammer on the grounds that the cure was fraudulent because the doctors of New York don't know the remedy he applied. But the appellate division of the supreme court over-ruled the lower court.

DAVID—Did he really cure the patient of cancer?

FRED—The United Press reports that he did. It says in quoting the decision of the appellate court. "This doctor effected a cure when the socalled orthodox methods of treatment had failed and now he has been punished for it."

DAVID—How is it possible that doctors will punish other doctors for curing people with new remedies?

DAD—The case speaks for itself, David. The court said a mouthful when it used the term "orthodox methods". It's the same old story as with religion. When Church and State were united it was a crime to be saved by some other preacher, you had to go to the one who was licensed by the state. He was orthodox, the other preacher was in cahoots with the Devil, they said. So if you follow the orthodox methods of medical science and the operation is a success, but the patient dies, that's O. K. But if the doctor does not operate and the patient is cured, then, that doctor is sent to jail or loses his license if he did not follow the orthodox method.

FRED—But those 1300 dogs were poisoned by orthodox injections of anti-rabbies serums and hundreds of them died in Florence, Alabama.

DAD—That's the point. Because they were killed in the orthodox fashion, the veterinarians who did the mishchief are protected. But the doctor who cured the cancer patient was prosecuted in New York. This happened here in San Diego also. I was present at the trial of a man who has a salve by which hundreds of people with skin cancer have been cured. He put them on the witness stand and brought pictures showing their condition.

FRED—Was he convicted?

DAD—The court set him free, because he cured people and the medical board is after him just the same trying to get something on him, even after he proved in court that he had an honest to goodness cure, and was set free by the court to help more people with his "unorthodox" salve.

DAVID—It's unbelievable that medical boards will do such things.

NAZIS Help Crippled R. A. F. Fighter

FRED—An Associated Press report from London says that the Germans notified the R. A. F. to send a new metal leg to Lt. Douglas Bader, who had broken his old metal leg when he parachuted into France. Dad, why did the Germans do that?

DAD—Why not?

DAVID— Aren't the Nazis supposed to be cruel and ruthless, especially when Lt. Bader has 15 German planes to his credit, which he is supposed to have shot down?

DAD—You must not let propaganda becloud your senses, David. The Germans are no worse than any other white man who is drafted into an army and ordered to shoot cripple and kill. He does not hate those he shoots. He might not know what it is all about, but he obeys orders as our soldiers would under like circumstances.

FRED—The United Press report says that after the Nazis promised not to shoot at the R. A. F. plane, a whole squadron of British planes kept in close formation until they dropped the leg by parachute in France and then flew on. But Lt. Bader has his new leg now.

DAD—Just remember boys, those stories that were told about Germans cutting off hands of Belgian children in the last war. Don't fall for propaganda and don't get to hating people just because some international war mongers want you to.

British Have Too Many Ships, Says Captain

"The British have more ships than they know what to do with."

This was the statment made in San Diego by Capt. Fred Sanders of the steam schooner Port Orford.

Capt. Sanders formerly was master of the American steamer Sea Thrush of the Shepherd line, which plied for many months out of North Atlantic ports to South America.

WANTS SHIPS AT ANCHOR

Commenting on the large number of American-flag ships which have been diverted from the intercoastal, offshore and coastwise trade routes, Capt. Sanders said:

"On a recent voyage to Durban, South Africa, I counted 52 ships anchored in the roadstead while the inner harbor was literally filled with vessels discharging cargo."

SLAVE LABOR

Capt. Sanders reported that while the Sea Thrush was in Durban a large number of British troop transports, carrying 20,000 Italian prisoners of war, entered the harbor. The Italians, he said, were to be employed by the British in constructing new roads in South Africa.

This "Shill" Rules the House

(San Diego Union)

Barkley and Baubles

Senator Alben W. Barkley, Democratic leader of the upper house, is quoted as reciting an amusing experience with an auctioneer at Atlantic City. By way of encouraging the crier at the auction, Barkley made a bid on a ring and thus aided in boosting the price.

Gratified by his success as a "shill", the senator tried the experiment a second time, making an initial bid on the next ring put up. He was astonished when the auctioner "knocked down" the jewelry at the figure he named. He says it took all the oratory he could command to get out of that deal..

Senator Barkley's story of his exploit as a come-on in an auction house is revealing. In some measure it explains the Senator's sponsorship of some legislation he has been piloting through the senate. The urge to aid New Deal programs and sell them to the senate is akin to the itch to boost prices at a jewelry auction.

Unfortunately for the country, phony legislative goods can't be "knocked down" to the senator from Kentucky. The public must pay for them.

ELEVATOR A CURE FOR HICCOUGHS

An Akron physician has lost a case—but found a "cure" for hiccoughs. The patient suffered a severe siege for two days, then decided to consult his doctor. He took an elevator to the physician's office, and was surprised to find that his hiccoughs had disappeared. "I'm sure the elevator ride was the cure," the physician said.

INTERNATIONAL BANKERS HERE FOR SAFE KEEPING AND PROPAGANDA PURPOSES

Sir Victor Sassoon, of Shanghai, and his cousin, Edward V. Rothschild, head of the Rothschild banking house, are both said to be in America. What their business is here has not been published so far as we've been able to learn.

Asuredly we would not regard their presence here as good news. They are probably the two most powerful men on earth. They are world bankers and as such their knowledge of world conditions and events are world wide.

The public can hardly expect to ever learn why they are here, who they are contacting or what they are doing. That sort of information rarely leaks out, but with their grasp of world finance it is probably no trival purpose that brings them here.—The Hot Springs Herald, New Mexico.

"de Aryan Comments"

Churchill on March 7, 1938

DAVID—Congressman Tinkham of Massachussetts, made a speech in congress on July 12, which gives the impression that already three and a half years ago, to be exact on March 7, 1938, there existed an agrement between President Roosevelt and the British government for joint naval action. That was more than a year before England declared war.

DAD—Wars are not made over night. What is your particular authority?

DAVID—The authority quoted is a speech which Winston Churchill, as head of the admiralty, made in Parliament on March 7, 1938.

DAD—Let's hear what he said.

DAVID— "Owing to the excellent arrangements which have grown up with the United States of America, and the fact that the United States Navy is not being allowed to fall behind British naval expansion in any way, we are, I think, entitled to measure our naval power against the naval power of European countries. We are, therefore, in a far stronger position on sea relative to any navy in Europe or to any likely combination of navies in Europe, than we were with the much larger fleets we had in 1914."

DAD— And what did Congressman Tinkham say about it?

DAVID— In a speech in congress, on July 12, Congressman Tinkham analyzed Mr. Churchill's statement as follows: "Only one conclusion can be drawn from Mr. Churchill's statement: An understanding had already been reached that the British and American fleets would be 'pooled' in the event of war. This meant war for the United States, and the President knew it. He had no moral nor legal right to make this commitment. The Constitution gives the Congress alone the right to declare war. The President did not hesitate to treat the Constitution as though it were a mere scrap of paper. Having secretly committed the country to war, the President then proceeded to promise in many speeches made before the last election that American blood would not be shed in wars of Europe and Asia . . . On Wednesday last Winston Churchill announced the joint occupancy of Iceland by British and American troops and the joint operation of the British and American navies around Iceland, whose waters are infested with hostile submarines. These facts clearly demonosrtate that President Roosevelt is pursuing a policy, secretly agreed upon long in advance, of armed intervention of the United States in the present war in Europe, and has shamelessly repudiated his promise to the American people."

Labor Racket

A Secret Cache of $62,000

FRED—The Associated Press reports from Chicago that Max Caldwell, a labor union agent whose wages were $125 a week, was being sued by members of his union for a refund of $910,000. As a result the State's attorney discovered a cache in a safe deposit box of more than $62,000 in cash, securities and jewelry in the name of Caldwell and his wife. How can a man who makes only $500 a month in wages put so much in a safe deposit box?

DAVID—That's what daddy calls the Labor Racket, Freddy.

DAD—I would not be surprised to hear that one of these days some other business agents in San Diego who have recently built themselves new homes, all paid for, were sued by the members of their unions for an accounting of the thousands of dollars they handled. During these times when the federal administration is spending billions of dollars for hasty construction and manufacture, labor unions have been able to collect millions in higher initiation fees and dues and assessments.

FRED— But the money does not belong to the business agents.

DAD—Certainly not. But you see, Fred, the labor unions are not incorporated like any other legal association and they don't have to give an itemized account at least once a year about their financial transactions. So it is not hard at all for the business agents to lay aside $62,000, or to have 910,000 disappear in thin air.

FRED— But, dad, that's almost a million dollars.

DAD— What of it? That's less than chicken feed. Nowadays we don't talk about such trifles, we have reached the age where a few billions more or less, is just a small item.

DAVID—If the unions were incorporated would the members be protected?

DAD— Nobody is protected against thieves, robbers and murderers who are determined to commit a crime before they are suspected, but if incorporated at least the unions would have to report their financial transactions once a year and would have to give an itemized account to their membership.

FREDD— Are there such unions in San Diego?

DAD— Yes Fred, there are many such unions in San Diego. The Solar Aircraft Association took the first step to incorporate under the laws of California and many others followed suit. They are not helpless slaves of the union bosses who hire what is known as labor goons to beat up any member who demands a financial accounting. Their fees are moderate and they actually elect their own officers and have control over their own affairs.

FRED— But what's the use of having unions?

DAD— Since the federal administration has passed the Wagner Act which really gives license to labor persecution of workers who don't belong to one of the international unions, the independent workers who are employed by larger corporations must defend themselves against the labor racket by forming their own independent associations and incorporating under the laws of California. It's better than being slaves of the international labor racketeers whom Westbrook Pegler has exposed and continues to expose effectively.

By Charles H. Ingersoll
(Of Dollar Watch Fame)

NEW YORK.—One of editor de Aryan's flights of publishing genius is his broadcast interviews, in which he resorts to the 'wisdom of the child' to provide the themes for his brilliant and profound addressess. His two children Fred and David,—apparently unrehearsed—supply the questions out of an inherited fund of common sense. And 'dad' has to watch his step, or get tripped.

For example, on picketing, he must justify his own, at the U. S. Post Office, Co-ed Drive-In-Cafe, and elsewhere. In fact, I think 13-year-old Fred can assimilate the fundamentals of this and other economic questions, in their simplicity.

Picketing, sit-down, collective bargaining, striking, and all Union presure, may only be objected to if it infringes on the law of property—property rights, and cannot be justified or upheld by law, if it does so infringe. In such case (as in practically all existing cases) it renders null and void our fundamental and constitutional laws of ownership, property rights, and law and order. It is simply revolution and anarchy. It is frankly putting into effect the anti-property and profit fallacies of Communism.

Until we come to a point-blank defense of these basic laws, we will continue to appease picketing and other mob action of unions. And here we need the uncorrupted child mind to understand that tangible physical property or wealth is the least valuable and vital. Examples: (1) The good will of a merchant; (2) the land value so closely allied to that good will: one being created by all the people, is a social value, and the other produced by fairness and efficiency of individual labor, is sacred private 'property'.

So a picketeer's first trespass is on these two intangibles, private good will and public land value. The Union objective is to destroy both, and so the Union becomes anti-property and anti-social. If the destruction is permitted to continue, very soon—depending on the concern's reserves—it gets to the physical property, which might as well be torn down if its owner can no longer function in business: to see that he shall not, being the function of picketing.

The great weakness in the whole defense of 'our American way of life' is that it is being attacked, not by Hitler, but by Communism, using Unionism to do its bombing. It is the fear of all our substantial interests—our business, capital, and wealth—of their own positions and basic correctness, constitutionally, morally and naturally. This may be boiled down to the words 'property rights'; they fear they are not right! The Marxists, under many guises, have undermined our whole consciousness with the fallacy that somehow human rights may be set above property rights; when there's no human right worth a penny that does not rely directly on property rights for its sustention. If we cannot protect accumulated wealth, property, and capital, we cannot protect wages. Because property owners have let themselves get tangled with monopoly owners, they have lost their defensive power, and in fact their right to defense.

Because capital has let itself be a defender of monopoly, it has the label of capitalism stuck to it; and it is now being attacked as monopoly by Messrs. Arnold and Henderson, the Monopoly Committee, the Department of Justice, and the Sherman law. This puts capital on the defensive; it sabotages their defense. And, most fatal, it opens the door to the Unionist attack in behalf of Communism.

The only answer is Property Ownership and 100% protection by the army and navy. To justify this demand, public property must be as inviolable as private property. This means that 200 billions of monopoly in the U. S. A. must be socialized. This will sustain all the taxation that now cuts wages in half and opens wide the door for Communism's wedge, unionism. This will restore property and wealth to its respectable position, make it inviolable, and untax it, so that it can give 100% service to the masses.

I never write an item 'against labor' without feeling the necessity of explaining my whole attitude toward labor. I am FOR, not against, labor. I am for ALL labor, not half of it, or 10% or 90%. I recognize labor as embodying our entire problem of 'unemployment, poverty, and war.' In fact, this phrase is my own way of stating humanity's problem. That is why I am against unions, except by way of toleration for possible excusable ignorance of natural law and economic science. I know there can be no solution or even gain to labor as a whole by union restrictions and extortions. And I equally well know that the remedy, as applied to all labor, is so simple that overnight it could be had if leaders would lead. We could have no labor problem if there were not a shortage of sale for products of labor; and without a labor problem we could have no poverty problem—nor war problem. High prices caused by taxes on labor products cut production in half. Shifting these taxes to land values would also break up 'land monopoly', the basic curse.

Why Doesn't Somebody Kill Hitler ?—

——asks the American magazine.

For the same reason that killing Churchill would not stop British imperialism, killing Stalin would not stop Comunism, killing FDR would not stop the New Deal racket. These men are representing conditions which have to be handled intelligently to remove the bad features. Killing Hitler, Roosevelt, Stalin or Churchill would be in effect the same as removing the hands of a clock. It would not stop time. It is worse than childish to attempt to solve problems by assassination.

FAITH

Faith in God who is IN me
Is the thing that sets me free.
Faith in other gods will kill,
This I know by my God's will
Who is IN me.

Guided by the inner voice
Doubt must vanish from my choice
Listening to His word alone
All my troubles soon are gone
Through Him IN me.

All life's victories are won
If we pray: "Thy Will be done!"
Not in books is it revealed
How to gain God's precious shield
Who is IN me.

—Otto Schkoelziger.

On the mutuality of Contracts, 2300 years ago, PLATO, a citizen of Greece wrote:

"The just man is everywhere at a disadvantage in comparison with the unjust. In the case of mutual contracts, wherever the just man forms a partnership with the unjust, nowhere will you find, upon the dissolution of the partnership, the just man coming out with more than the unjust, but less. And, in the affairs of state, whenever extraordinary taxes are levied, the just man, upon the same amount of property, contributes a larger share, and the other a smaller, and when there are receipts for distribution, the one gains nothing, but the other much."
